

IS 230 Site Specification Document

Goals and Purpose

A clear statement of goal and purpose of the site should be made. For example, The Web site will present information about the individual site developer and her or his ability to complete assignments and demonstrations relative to the class using skills and knowledge from the class.

Audience

The target audience should be determined and briefly described. Their age range should be identified and specifically described. Provide some adjectives to describe the audience (i.e.... curious, educated, thoughtful) and how you can \ will address this in the web site.

Design Requirements

- The Web site should use layout, font styles, and colors consistently to unify the pages of the site; these should be specifically described.
- Photographs and other appropriate visuals should accompany the text, they should also be described.
- The site should provide a clear navigation scheme. If a graphic scheme is specified a text-based navigation alternative should also be provided.

Delivery Requirements

This section should clearly describe requirements (hardware and software) with which the site should work. For example,

The Web site should display as required on the following browsers.

- Internet Explorer, v6 or later
- Safari 2.0
- AOL 8 or later
- Mozilla Firefox 1.0x or later

The Web site should display on the following operating systems.

- Macintosh OS10.x or later
- Windows XP Home or Professional

The site will require the following plug-ins:

- Flash Player 7.0 or above
- Acrobat Reader 6.0 or above

Content

The content of the site should be generally described and the relationship between content pages explained. For example,

A home page and content pages should be included in the web site.

- Home page: General information about the site developer.

- Assignments page: Description of and links to various class assignments.
- Demonstration page: Description of and links to various class demonstrations.
- Personal page: Description of and links to information about the site developer and his or her interests.
- Other pages: Include other pages as needed and desired.

Flowchart

Note: Each content page is also linked to every other content page.
